

This book is a short book with the purpose of taking a look at the issue of food security and the fundamental right of every human bring to get access to good quality food. But it does not stop there. Along the way the authors asks readers to examine their own food choices and the ripple effect that poor choices are having in their present lives, their larger communities, and the future generations. The authors take you on a journey as you consider the upcoming food crisis facing nations in the near future. You also consider how movements like the locavore movement can help you and your community. In keeping with the Holistic Health Nurse Series, this book does advocate a plant-based diet for many reasons, health being one of them. If you are concerned about food at all, or care about the state of our food supply, then this is a must have book for you.
