

In these two tales of obsessive love, Elizabeth Geoghegan, author of "The Marco Chronicles," creates vivid portraits of strong women blinded by a weakness for a certain kind of guy—heartless, but impossible to resist. Whether her heroines are caught up in the chaos of Bangkok or lured into the deep woods of the Pacific Northwest, they struggle to find their way in a world where disaster is a natural consequence of the urgency of desire. In these dark, lyric stories, women meet life and their own instincts head on. Elizabeth Geoghegan's e-book The Marco Chronicles: To Rome, without love was published by Shebooks and is a best-selling Kindle Single on Amazon. Geoghegan is currently completing a novel set in Southeast Asia and a collection of stories. Geoghegan writes in English, dreams in Italian, and wishes she could recall how to speak French. She earned an MFA in fiction writing from Chicago's School of the Art Institute and an MA in creative writing from the University of Colorado, Boulder. She lives in Rome on a dead-end street between a convent and a jail. This is a short e-book published by Shebooks--high quality fiction, memoir, and journalism for women, by women.
